APRIL, 1908.

REMARKS.

With the first issue of this Curio, will be mailed, as far as they hold out, the remaining copies of the January, 1908, catalogue. As some of the coins contained therein have been sold orders will be subject to the items being still in stock.

NUMISMATIC SHORTS.

The catalogues of two large New York auction sales, in May and June, are now in preparation. The first includes, among other consignments, a $2,500 collection of choice U. S. coins. The second will consist of Part II. of the Appleton collection, comprising the ancient series, coins of Central Europe, etc. A fine U. S. series will be added to this.

A recent inquiry was made for one of those new $20 without "God bless our home."

An 1861 D. mint gold dollar, with the D skillfully soldered on, is reported as emanating from Washington, D. C.

Keep your eye open if offered a plated copper Stella in a watch charm with crystal sides which the owner is offering as a gold specimen.

Don't buy the so-called Franklin cents from New Haven dies. These dies were found in a hardware store in that city some years ago and the pieces sold were struck from them. They do not closely resemble the genuine.

Fake fractional California gold of old type and dated 1857 is being pushed in some quarters. Don't invest.

Some strange assertions are frequently made in catalogues. Referring to the 1793 cent, Crosby 8-F, in a recent sale, the cataloguer, while quoting Crosby, says "but one other known" when Crosby distinctly mentions four, two of which he owned personally, the Phelps and Dr. Hall's being the others. Another was shown at the sale by a Conn. collector who bought it in 1902 at a sale of the same cataloguer who asserted "but one other known," making 5, at least, in existence. There is no authority either for the statement that all the known "clover leaf" 1793 cents are poor as Dr. Hall's, from the Parmelee collection, is a pretty decent specimen.

1794 HALF CENTS.

BY CHAS. STEIGERWALT.

With the close attention paid to the dies of the 1794 Cents, it is strange that the Half Cents of same date have been neglected. Frossard in his Monograph, published in 1879, seems to have been the only person to list them with accompanying plate of the 5 obverses but only one reverse.

Pending a more elaborate list, with illustrations, the following may interest collectors. There are 5 obverses and 5 reverses combining to make 8 varieties that I have met with. Any additional dies or combinations I would be pleased to see and note. Another combination is on one list, I understand, but probably in error.

No. 1. The distinguishing feature of this die is the high relief of the hair. The 4 nearly touches bust; the 1 is directly below where the hair meets neck but not very near it and the 9 is slightly higher than 7 and 4. Found with reverses A and B.

Rev. A. A pair of leaves meets another pair at top of wreath; the left ribbon end curves inward and points at 2 and right end curves outward close to 0; "Half" and "Cent" are wide apart and a dot nearly central between them.

Rev. B. Two leaves, close together, meet a single leaf but do not touch it; "Half" and "Cent" close; a dot between E and N near top of N; die break through E of "United;" ribbon ends short.

No. 2. On this and those following the head is flatter than in No. 1. Date closer to head than on the other varieties; 4 near bust and 1, well under hair, is nearer to it than any other, 9 of date low. With Rev. C.

Rev. C. Two leaves, close together, touch single leaf at top. Center dot is over N. Ribbon ends long and wide apart.

No. 3. The date is very compact, the 4 near bust but, as the whole date is near the milling, the 1 is far from the head. With Rev. A.

No. 4. Date slightly wider than previous numbers, 79 being near together, and is well placed with 1 and 4 equally distant from hair and bust. With Rev. B-C-D.

Rev. D. This reverse bears a remarkable resemblance to Rev. A and, at first examination, was supposed to be identical. Closer scrutiny indicates minor differences that are difficult to describe but show, apparently, another die. The leaves of wreath are better defined than on Rev. A where they overlap in some places.

No. 5. The date is wide and evenly spaced; the head is high and date being near milling leaves a considerable field between.

Rev. E. This also closely resembles Rev. A but not as nearly as Rev. D. While there are other minor differences, the chief is a perpendicular leaf under C of C E N T which barely escapes touching it and which has an attached berry without stem near its top.
